Architecture is both the process and the product of planning, designing, and constructing buildings or any other structures. Architectural works, in the material form of buildings, are often perceived as cultural symbols and as works of art. Historical civilizations are often identified with their surviving architectural achievements.

The Ordrupgaard Museum needed a new structure in which to display permanent and temporary collections, alongside a new caf  . This need to grow afforded us the opportunity to design a new structure that redefined the relationships between various museum components â€™ existing buildings, the new extension â€™ and the gardens that frame them.
