Sensory Analysis Section 4 Dr. Bruce W. Zoecklein 2 Descriptive methods are used to provide more-comprehensive profiles of a product by asking panelists to identify the different characteristics within the product and quantify characteristics. Trained panelists must be used for descriptive methods (see Trained Panelists and Panelist Training).

SENSORY ANALYSIS Section 4. Methods of Sensory Evaluation

Sensory evaluation testing is the process that establishes the consumer acceptability of a product. It can help identify issues before general production is begun and potentially bring to light issues that hadn't previously been considered a factor in the success of the project.
